ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a hollow-nanoparticle-based biosensing tool, which comprises proteins capable of forming nanoparticles through the incorporation of a lipid bilayer and specific biorecognition molecules bound thereto and a biosensing method using such tool.